Palace of Aigai

Palace of Aigai in Vergina, Greece, where Alexander the Great was crowned King of Macedonia around 2,400 years ago. The historic property, formally known as the Royal Metropolis of the Macedonians, spans approximately 161,500 square feet. It was mostly built by the young king's father, Philip II of Macedonia, in the 4th century BCE and was once the largest building in the country.

71 km

Vergina

The famous Macedonian treasures can be found in this must-see archaeological site with its breathtaking subterranean museum which hosts four graves including the tomb of Philip II, father of Alexander the Great.

70 km

Dion and Mount Olympus

The ancient theatre of the Hellenistic period, the Roman theatre and the Villa of Dionysus are only some of the landmarks found in this significant archaeological site that lies on the foot of Mount Olympus. The highest mountain of Greece is famous for its biodiversity and its beautiful trekking routes.

Meteora

The Monasteries of Meteora, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, stand on top of a rock formation of vertical cliffs creating a mesmerizing -almost out of this world- sense of beauty and serenity.

Ancient Pella

A palace, an agora, houses, buildings and beautiful mosaics can all still be seen today at the city where Alexander the Great was born and reigned. The visit to the new museum is not to be missed.

84 km

Amphipolis

This important military base of Alexander the Great attracted media attention since the recent excavations on Kasta Hill which revealed a Macedonian-style tomb encircled by an enormous wall.

Nearby excursions to world-class sights and monuments

Thessaloniki is close to unique historical areas such as Vergina, the capital of the ancient Macedonian Kingdom and an UNESCO World Heritage site. The archaeological site includes the tomb of Philip II, father of Alexander the Great. The archaeological site of Dion at Mount Olympus, the home of the twelve gods of ancient Greece, and the nearby archaeological museum are also must see sites. Mount Athos with twenty monasteries and a monastic population is a unique site. The natural beauties and crystal-clear waters of the beaches of Halkidiki and Pieria are incomparable tourist destinations.

Stagira @ Halkidiki

The birthplace of Aristotle was founded in 655 BC and is located in the famous for its crystal-clear waters peninsula of Halkidiki. Recent excavations brought to light various buildings, houses and the early Classical fortification of the city.

84 km

Mount Athos

Known as the "Holy Mountain", the monastic community of unparalleled beauty and serenity is home to 20 monasteries and dates back to at least 800 A.D.
